Boyett Family Health Pad for Relaxation, Joint and Back Pain Relief

The Boyett Family Health Pad is a non-invasive pad for RELAXATION. It is a natural, gentle method to relieve stress, restore energy and enhance sleep. It is a safe, effective, economical and simple to use form of relaxation therapy.

The word therapy used herein does not refer to any medical therapy, but to general non-medical therapy such as exercise therapy.

How It Works: A multi-vibrational PEMF provides a natural way to assist the normal functioning process of the body as it passes through all tissues and cells. Applying The Boyett Family Health Pad technology to the body areas relaxes the cells. This typically increases blood flow. Increasing blood flow increases nutrition and allows improved waste elimination PLUS better oxygenation creating less stress and more energy.

WARNING

Do not use the Boyett Family Health Pad if you have a medical implant such as a pacemaker, infusion pump, or defibrillator; if you had an organ implant, or if you are pregnant.

Please consult with your physician or healthcare practitioner if you have any medical problems.

Manufacturers of the Boyett Family Health Pad do not make any medical claims.

If you are treating a chronic stress problem, you may experience an increased level of discomfort, not unlike the tingling sensation you get when blood starts flowing after your hand or arm has fallen asleep. In those situations, our clients found shorter but an increased number of sessions worked best.

Guidelines for Relaxation and Relief:

Find a quiet location

Room temperature should be comfortable

Loosen clothing and remove shoes

Relax in a chair, on a couch or on a bed

Plug in pad (Okay to use extension cord)

Enjoy session (generally 20 to 60 minutes)

After session unplug pad

You may experience positive results after one treatment, but often it takes more. Keep your Boyett Family Health Pad by your favorite chair as a reminder to use it daily.

Take control over Stress with the Boyett Family Health Pad

It is impossible to feel relaxed and tense at the same time. Relaxation response can reduce existing distress and eventually ameliorate its effect.

THE BASIC PAD

can be placed on the neck, shoulder, elbow, hand, knee, foot or any area for spot treatment

THE MULTI-USE PAD

is ideal for upper or lower back, chest, hips, legs and feet

is padded and is ideal for behind the back while sitting in a chair or on the couch, to place under your legs or to lie in bed.

A few weeks ago, Hayden suggested that I try one of their new technologies - a cool wave machine - he said it could prove very useful for people with injuries. I was skeptical, really skeptical. I had injured my back earlier in the year and ended up with a bulging disk, pinched nerves, and arthritis to boot. I do not want to take narcotics so the pain had become part of my life for the last 8 months. I believe in natural medicines but truly question the products out there that prove to cure or help 'almost anything'. But, I was in a lot of pain so I decided to give the little heating pad a shot. The first few times I used it, I wasn't even sure it was functioning. It doesn't have an indicator like a green light to signal that it is actually on. It doesn't give out a powerful vibration or intense heat. Then one day, I put it up to my cheek and could feel that it actually WAS working. Every morning I used it while I was having my coffee and waking up. Every night I used it as I read before bed. Every morning I used it while I was having my coffee and waking up. Every night I used it as I read before bed. One day, I woke up in the morning and realized, hey, my back doesn't hurt today! Several days just like that went by. My conclusion at this point is that it must be doing something to help heal my body and relieve the pain. I was skeptical at first, but I was wrong. I am so thankful that Hayden reached out to me to introduce me to their new product.
